

Two fictional patients with Helioxa cough

Fictional journal — synthetic case for software testing. DOI: 10.0000/fake.case

Abstract

Patient A, 12-year-old fictional child, cough after Helioxa. Patient B, 33-year-old fictional man, same product, hemoptysis one episode. Two distinct cases in one article.

Case report

Patient A, 12-year-old fictional child, cough after Helioxa. Patient B, 33-year-old fictional man, same product, hemoptysis one episode. Two distinct cases in one article. Literature review of cough reflex is not a case.

References (ignore for case extraction)

1. Smith J. Made-up review of widget tablets. Fake J Med. 2019;1:1-9.
2. Doe A. Unrelated mechanism paper. Imaginary Pharmacol. 2020;2:10-20.
3. Lee B. General discussion of nausea. Placeholder Clin. 2021;3:30-40.